

Sutton Council

'We employed Dramanon to design and deliver a diversity programme of half-day workshops for all our employees, which began in 2004. We have so far trained about half of our employees. Dramanon has brought a different, innovative and enjoyable approach to diversity training with the use of acted scenarios based on live issues in our organisation. These promoted discussion and reflection and those who attended left with a heightened awareness of what diversity meant to them in their working lives. Many intended to think about both their own and their colleagues' behaviour at work and to try to adopt some of the tools from the workshops to embed diversity into all that they did. There has been an overwhelming positive response to this awareness programme.'

Best wishes.
